

Cocktails & History

Inspired by the late background TV of any house party that is playing the random movie collection. Always debated upon and fought over trying to find the movie not watched by all, we chose the following title for your viewing.

House Surprise Punch 6.50

Everyday is a different punch mixed with alcohol bought in by our patrons

Alcohol of the World, Juices Citrus, Gomme

Mixed and stirred in our large punch bowl and served into a highball

The Libertine 8.95

The Earl of Rochester was amongst the first of modern day party goers and has almost inspired a generation onto him. This re-worked classic is served with a bit of naughty on the side.

Earl Grey Infused Gin, Lemon Juice, Gomme, Egg White.

Straight up in a Tea Cup; with a custard crème or jammy dodger.

Crimes of Passion 9.45

A take on the pornstar martini and all the lovely ladies of the red light district begin to flutter. It became a hit in Chelsea's town house 2004 as did the film, Filmed round the corner.

Strawberry and Cream Tea infused Finlandia Vodka, Passion Fruit Puree, Prosecco.

Shaken into a martini glass with a sprinkling of fairy flowers

Coffee and Cigarettes 9.75

An adjective for all those that remember that you could smoke in bars and cafes once across the world. We've pared an updated espresso martini with the old cigarette candy.

Grand Brulot, Espresso Coffee, Tobacco Gomme.

Served Straight up with a HUGE FOAM HEAD and a real Cigarette.

Rum Diaries 9.95

We at TLYD agree that our perfect house-guest would be Hunter S Thompson, no matter the state he would no doubt leave his room, or bathroom, in! So we created a drink in his honour

Cognac, Honey Rum, Lime, mint and sugar muddled

Lashings of Hedonist cognac infused with ginger and vanilla, dash of Ron Aguerre Miel, a honey rum from Tenerife, all topped with prosecco and served over crushed ice

Desperado 8.95

When you've had one of those days where you imagine your office being plunged into a bullet-riddled showdown, and your boss dying spectacularly...this ones for you

Vanilla infused El Jimador Tequila, Apple Sauce, Apple Liqueur, homemade Vanilla Sugar, Lime

Served on the rocks in a large glass

Sexy beast 8.50

Our bartender's favourite..because they think it personifies them! (Please don't tell them otherwise, they may get upset)

However, sometimes the simplest is the best

Coconut Rum, Beer

A full measure of coconut rum stirred a la 'old fashioned' in a jam jar and topped up with lager

Bottles

Whether you're an alcoholic or you just want the satisfaction of having your own bottle to drink from when you please this list offers everything we have at TLYD. Just in case check with the waiter to any special requests.

Sharing

Van Wilder (Sharing (1-2) 19.00

A mixture of one of Van Wilders crazy nights, this drink houses an array of alcohols and flavours to start the night lubed up

Tequila, Rum, Vodka, Passion Fruit, Guava

Created in a cafetiere like a boss to share or to be hans-sol and walk around like a true alcoholic

American Pie (1-2) 23.00

So good you will probably want to stick your.....straw in it, this delicious sharer is what all the cool kids are drinking at band camp these days

Znaps Pure Lake Gateway Vodka, Apple, Gomme and with an infusion of natural ingredients, topped up with either Cream Soda or Root Beer

Served out of a Watering Can, because we can

Towering Inferno (Sharing 3-4) 37.00

Our home made punch with spirits from across the world. We will build this drink to the flavours of the patron like the days of old, or in a new bespoke style.

Alcohol Of The World, Juices, Citrus, Gomme.

Made in a home style blender and built over ice. Then interned by the resident gummy bears of the tower and set on fire for your pleasure.

All drinks are subject to a discretionary service charge of 10%
